Curriculum vitae

Uwe Seidel (44) is a senior member of the police and works as a consultant for the Baden-Württemberg Home Office. In his role as consultant, he is responsible for the POLIZEI-ONLINE project, which is primarily aimed at developing an integral knowledge management system for the state's police force and local government. Since becoming project manager in 1999, Uwe Seidel has been responsible for all presentations and talks about the project given at trade fairs and competitions, to provide expert information and to promote the exchange of experience. Uwe Seidel furthermore presented the project at all relevant competitions and has been able to record some important successes. One of these was winning the 2006 European E-Learning Award for the blended learning project for the EU-wide introduction of the digital tachometer and winning the 2006 Innovation Award of the German Association for public-private-partnerships for the successful collaboration with Deutsche Telekom AG in the context of a public-private-partnership.

Uwe Seidel furthermore introduces the project in the context of presentations and talks to potential cooperation partners in addition to the Hessen cooperation partners and is responsible for creating the right conditions for successful cooperation. He also distinguishes himself through his commitment to supporting the collaboration between the Baden-Württemberg police force and the Central European Police Academy.
